

Weekly Update

December 13, 2011

Hello CORE Members,

As you may know, CORE has been working on starting a community garden in Bonham. We have a space in Catron Park that has been approved for use as a garden by the Bonham City Council. In the past few months the space has been tilled and the city has installed water for the garden's use.

We have a small group of people who are ready to start gardening once we have the space prepared and sectioned off (which will hopefully happen in January), but we still need more folks who live in and around Bonham to join the garden.

As a garden member you will get your own plot to garden in as you see fit.

Attached to this email is an information sheet listing a few of the many reasons to participate in a community garden.

One of the reasons (from the information sheet):

Community greening can help feed people and save money. Numerous studies have found that home and community gardens produce food worth hundreds of dollars. This food and financial savings can be critically important to the nutritional and financial health of families living on low incomes or in neighborhoods poorly served by grocery stores.

If you are interested in participating in the Bonham Community Garden please let us know. You can respond to this email or you can call me at (903) 583-3746. Please forward this email to anyone you think might appreciate the information.
